Marine 1st Lt. Joe A. Inglish, whose wife, Ida, lives at 4926 Cape May ave. has been cited for services as a regimental personnel officer during the seizure of a beachhead on Bougainville in the Solomons, Marine Corps headquarters at Washington reports.

The commendation was made by Maj. Gen. A. H. Turnage, commander of the Third Marine division. It reads in part:

"You performed the greater part of the administrative duties involved in the functioning of the regiment, and relieved the regimental commander from the necessity of giving more than a minimum amount of time to administrative problems.

"You organized, coordinated, and directed the work of your section with exceptional efficiency, and, in addition, capably commanded the regimental headquarters battery throughout the campaign."

Lt. Inglish is a veteran of 22 years in the corps. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in 1942, and promoted to his present rank last March.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon H. Landry had the pleasure last week of a visit from both of their sons, who are in the armed forces. They reside at 2146 Abbott street. Gordon H. Landry Jr. ARM 1c, had been on duty in the south Pacific since before Pearl Harbor. He is being transferred to duty in the Atlantic and left Sunday after visiting for a week with his folks here. Their other son, Donald, has completed "boot" training at the San Diego Naval Training base, and, after a few days visit at home, left last week to begin training at a radar school.

ENGLAND LOOKS BEST FROM SKY, SAYS SWAN

"Just came back from flying around the English countryside in a B-24, and it left me with the impression that I always get when I fly on these hops, that England looks a lot better from above than it does on the ground," writes T/Sgt. Francis G. Swan, April 30, to his parents, Editor and Mrs. Franklin F. Swan. Sergeant Swan is on duty at an army air corps base in England, serving in the combat intelligence department of a heavy bomber group. He went overseas in October, 1943. His letter in part continues:

"The intensified farming here, with all the neat hedge-rimmed fields, makes a mighty pretty picture from the air.

"I guess I'll finally be able to get that trip to London. We are leaving Tuesday. I'll try to keep a mental account of the sights and write about them on my return to the base here. We have reservations in one of the swankiest hotels in London, the Regent Palace. I can't wait to get between sheets for the first time since I was home on a furlough last June, and have breakfast in bed. If they bring me powdered eggs, however, you'll hear me cussing clear to San Diego.

"The weather has been warm here the last few weeks. I wish mother could see the English flower gardens. They are really beautiful. Most of them are very formal and laid out symmetrically. In color, the blue and yellow flowers seem to predominate."

Lloyd Williams, Point Loma high school graduate of the late '30's, has been home on a 14-day furlough. He has been in maritime service nearly a year and will now go to Alameda to attend Maritime school. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Williams, formerly of Wawona dr., now making their home in Pacific Beach.

Sgt. John B. Ortega jr., whose wife, Norma and son, Johnnie, reside at 4736 Santa Cruz ave., last week was awarded the Purple Heart as result of an injury he received about April 22 while in action in the U.S. army air corps over France. He was struck in one heel by flak and an operation was necessary to remove the fragments.

Ortega, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ortega of Carlsbad, is an engineer-gunner on a B-26 Marauder bomber. He also has two brothers in the army, Charles and George.

Pilot Husband Of Ocean Beach Woman in Limelight

The Liberator bomber, "Edie's Sweetie," carries bad news for the Japs in the South Pacific, the Eleventh Naval District reported yesterday. "Edie" refers to Mrs. Edith Robinson, of 4667 Del Monte st., and "Sweetie" is her husband Lt. Harwill E. Robinson, USN, 29, of Laguna Beach, pilot of the Navy Liberator bomber. The tag line is painted beneath Lieutenant Robinson's cockpit in the big bomber, which is attached to the "Bulldog" squadron.

In a recent attack, the navy said, "Edie's Sweetie" made five runs on a small enemy base, badly damaging a freighter and shooting up a flak tower and hutments.

On the first run, the account stated, the Liberator swept in so low that the bombardier and belly turret gunner could have reached out and pulled the Jap machine gunner on the tower platform up by his hair.

On the second run, the bow gunner smashed the platform and the starboard waist gunner scattered Jap soldiers on the air strip with machine gun fire. A bomb near hit almost overturned the freighter, leaving it listing.

In succeeding runs, the bomber's gunners delivered additional smashing attacks on the tower, huts and anti-aircraft batteries.

Lt. Robinson's mother, Mrs. Elsie B. Robinson, lives at Laguna Beach. His wife is a native of Corpus Christi, Tex., where they were married last year.

Writes of Hearing Famed Violinist In Aleutian Islands

From station WXLB, Aleutian islands, chief announcer Sgt. H. A. Hartvigsen writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hartvigsen, of the new radio station dedication, and of the distinguished persons who attended.

"Dearest Folks: On Thursday we had a great surprise; that evening we had a 30-minute concert program by Yehudi Menuhin. He was stopping over here and we expect him to return any day and then we'll have another good time. He is certainly a fine fellow; said he was in San Diego last fall, and so when you see Mrs. Buker again give her best regards from Yehudi and me. Last night we had a grand opening of the new station with every one from the general on down present. (Even some nurses). Guess it was a novelty for some who hadn't been to see us before. Many said it was interesting to see what the people looked like after listening to them for about a year.

"Gaylord Carter, former organist for Amos 'n' Andy, now in the navy, is here as a welfare officer. He brought up with him, a Hammond organ, and it certainly is a joy to hear one after being away from such things so long. Soon he will be broadcasting for us, and the pleasure of our listeners . . . Menuhin was here again and played a half hour program. It was really great to have him play for us. I had several chats with him and his accompanist, Adolph Beller. Our staff pianist, Henry Holt, knew him in Austria, so they had many things to talk over. Henry is a very fine musician, before coming into the army he was a member of the N.B.C.'s first piano quartet. He is married and his wife lives in L. A., where they will make their home after the war . . .

"Last Friday we had a preview of Bing Crosby's new movie "Goin' My Way." It wasn't too bad, a little long; guess the people in the states will like it. It was shown in studio A, and was attended by a lot of officers, including the general and the marine commandant. Afterward many of us gave our opinions of the movie, which were transcribed and sent to Hollywood for them to hear. Yes, mine is among the opinions. There was another new addition to the staff last week, too; a very young huskie puppy, by name, "Miss Duffy." She is very cute and is just about big enough to chew shoe-laces. (Mine are getting a going over right now).

"We broadcasted our first organ program last Sunday night with Carter at the Hammond. I announced him and threw the switch and Carter started to play. The theatre, in which the organ is installed, is several miles from the station. We had four lines strung direct, then installed them at both ends. Next came about a week of various tests, for sound, proper balance, etc., and then to keep noise out of the lines for those miles. Carter did an excellent job of playing and the program was broadcast with our great pride and satisfaction. I wanted the enclosed pictures to arrive near Mother's day, but I'm afraid they will be late. Must tend to my short-wave now."

Love,

—AUSTIN.

Deserter Who Confesses to 16 Burglaries Taken

Business men of Ocean Beach ought to be able to sleep better these nights, now that the man who has confessed to at least 16 burglaries in this community covering a period of several months, is behind the bars in the San Diego jail. Officer Benny Burtsch Saturday afternoon arrested Harold Albert Elverson, 23, at Seventh and University in the city, who later confessed to having pulled practically all the burglar jobs in Ocean Beach, Acting Sgt. L. G. Chauvaud of the local police station reported Thursday. Elberson, he said, was found to be a deserter from the Marine Corps.

The only recent Ocean Beach business district theft, to which Elverson did not confess were those at the Joe Lownes stores and at the Mode O'Day shop, reports Chauvaud. One of the jobs he confessed to was as long ago as one year and was pulled off in Pacific Beach.

A number of the stolen articles were recovered by the officers. Included in the recovery were a cash register taken from a barber shop in the 4900 block on Newport ave. and a number of other stolen articles.

Assisting Officer Burtsch in the arrest were Officers Leetch, Harshman and Disney.

Purse Not Taken

Report of a purse containing $200 and ration books stolen from Mrs. Sylvia Doty's residence at 4670 Muir ave. Thursday last week proved to be in error. Chauvaud said yesterday. Mrs. Doty found later that she had left the purse at a friend's house, the officer stated.

Arrest Drunk Driver

Local officers report the arrest early Thursday morning of Layman Robert Austin, 42, of 4828 Muir st., on a charge of driving a car while drunk. He was taken to the San Diego jail.

Home Falling Down, High School Senior Tells Kiwanians

To solve the problem of youth delinquency something must be done about the home, Miss Dorothy Malcolm, Point Loma high school senior, declared in a talk before the Kiwanis club at this week's meeting, held at Glenn's Drive-In. Her appearance before the club had been arranged by Rev. J. F. Roberts, program chairman for the evening. "The home is disintegrating and some way must be found to halt that disintegration," she said.

Miss Malcolm said that one trouble with solutions offered by parents for youth delinquency is that recreational programs often do not reach the delinquents. She included as delinquents the youths who attend school without studying their lessons and who sleep in class.

As for adult supervision of youth programs for solving the problem, she said she favored such supervision and that she believed many youths are in favor.

Chairman Roberts pleaded with the Kiwanians to take the youth delinquency problem seriously and to band together with other civic agencies here to help work out the solution. The problem is big enough to require the consolidated efforts of all these agencies, he said. It's going to take more than a recreation building at the foot of Newport avenue to do the job, he pointed out.

Insko Tops List

Myron Insko evidently is tops among members of the Ocean Beach club for perfect attendance at the meetings. In awarding attendance pins, Capt. Burritt Mills, club secretary, announced that Insko had attended every meeting for 14 years, an unusual record. Frank McElvee was announced to be in second place with a perfect attendance record lasting 11 years. Others with two or more years of perfect attendance at the meetings were announced to be as follows:

Ed Wickern, nine years; Milton Lancaster and H. H. Hartvigsen, each six years; Glenn Jones, the club president, five years; Rollin Reed, three years; and Jerry Sullivan, two years.

HAROLD K. ANDERSON GIVEN SERVICE EMBLEM

Harold K. Anderson of 4344 Santa Cruz ave. was honored during the past week. He was one of five civilian employes at the Naval Air station who were given civilian service recognition emblems, evidencing meritorious effort on the home front. The plastic pin he received bears the inscription, "U. S. Navy, Civilian Service." The presentation of the emblem was made by Rear Admiral Elliott Buckmaster, U.S.N., commanding officer at the station.

SWETLAND AND FOLD CONDUCT MEETING

Noel Swetland, junior commander, and S. G. Fold, sergeant-at-arms, conducted the regular meeting of Clyde A. Wright post of the American Legion, held Thursday evening in the Woman's clubhouse at 1959 Abbott st. Both Dan Moss, the post commander, and Ray Alm, post adjutant, were out of the city, and unable to attend.

A discussion of whether or not the post would sponsor some observance of Memorial day was held during the meeting.

July 2 Set for Annual Swim Race

July 2 has been set as the date for the second annual Convair half mile swimming contest, to be held in Mission bay. Other features planned for this aquatic event include a whale boat race between service units, outboard and inboard motor boat races and a water skiing contest.

The plans for the swim call for five divisions. One for aircraft men, one for aircraft women, an open men's division, an open women's division and a military division. Trophies will be awarded to each of the winners of first, second and third and certificates will be given to all contestants finishing the race. The organization with the largest number of contestants finishing will receive a team trophy.

Officer Objects to Seal in Front Seat

A well-behaved seal that will confine itself to the back seat of an officer's car is not so objectionable as a passenger, but when said seal "jumps into the front seat with me and starts biting my arm, that's something else again," reported Officer John Berry of the Ocean Beach police force Thursday.

Anyway, the front seat was rapidly vacated by Officer Berry. Out in the open, the officer again took command and herded the seal into the bay, two blocks away.

The act began Tuesday at the rear of the Safeway store in Mission Beach, where Officer Berry was called to take charge of an intruding 100-pound seal that had come up from the ocean at Mission Beach. Berry lassoed the sea animal and dragged it into the rear seat of his car for transportation back to the water.

So, if you find a seal in your home one of these days, don't be too surprised. The officers report that this is the time of year that stray seals are likely to be found on land near the local beaches. The land intruders are the young seals, and the explanation the officers give is that either these young lose their mothers, or the surf is too rough for them, or they become ill.

In addition to Officer Berry's mammal friend, about a dozen other young seals have taken to the land here and at Mission Beach during the past week. One tried to get into a small cafe on Newport ave., another was found in a woman's yard on Cape May ave., and another the officers picked up at Newport and Cable.

SAN DIEGO YACHT CLUB TO CELEBRATE

Celebration of the 58th anniversary of the San Diego Yacht club will be an event of Saturday and Sunday, May 20 and 21 in the Point Loma clubhouse.

Festivities will start with a cocktail party Saturday, 6:30 to 7:30 p.m., in the Fo'c'sle, followed by a dinner in the main salon. Trophies for activities in the preceding year will be presented by Commodore Robert A. Lush. There will be dancing after dinner. Many yachtsmen from Coronado and San Diego Yacht club plan to spend the busy week-end aboard their yachts at the docks. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Burnham, are in charge of the Saturday night affair.

Fred H. Kraft Wins Both Nominations

Ocean Beach Druggist Assured Of Reelection In Nove

Based on the primary election returns of Tuesday's voting, Assemblyman Fred H. Kraft, Ocean Beach druggist, the only candidate from this community in the campaigns for office, is now assured of reelection in November for another term in the state legislature at Sacramento. He was unopposed on the republican ballot and in the democratic contest with John S. Browne, Kraft was an easy victor.

With returns from only nine precincts out of the total of 284 precincts in the 78th assembly district missing up to noon Thursday, Kraft had polled a total of 7,066 votes, to 4,948 for Browne in the democratic contest, giving him a lead over Browne of 2,118 votes.

Nearly 3 to 1 Here

In his home community of Ocean Beach, Kraft was given a splendid vote of confidence. In fact, the total of 898 votes he received in the 21 local precincts was almost three to one over the 313 total cast here for Browne, the candidate running against Kraft for the democratic nomination. By precincts the vote for the two men on the democratic ballot was as follows:

Precinct 34, Kraft 45, Browne 21; 35, Kraft 42, Browne 13; 36, Kraft 32, Browne 29; 37, Kraft 29, Browne 17; 38, Kraft 30, Browne 14; 39, Kraft 50, Browne 14; 40, Kraft 38, Browne 10; 41, Kraft 44, Browne 7; 42, Kraft 47, Browne 7; 43, Kraft 61, Browne 12; 44, Kraft 53, Browne 11; 45, Kraft 41, Browne 8; 46, Kraft 40, Browne 14; 47, Kraft 55, Browne 26; 48, Kraft 44, Browne 22; 49, Kraft 52, Brown 20; 50, Kraft 46, Browne 14; 51, Kraft 73, Browne 21; 52, Kraft 32, Browne 19; 53, Kraft 24, Browne 8; 54, Kraft 20, Browne 6. Total, Kraft 898, Browne 313.

Houser and Downey Win

Lt. Governor Frederick F. Houser won an easy victory over nine opponents for the republican nomination for U. S. senator, polling a total of 283,376 votes. Senator Sheridan Downey, with 118,624 votes, ran second on the republican ballot, and Philip Bancroft, with 89,528 votes, ran third.

Senator Downey easily won the democratic nomination, polling a total of 469,156, and Houser topped the list of the 10 candidates who ran against Downey, receiving a total of 120,400 votes. The foregoing figures for senator are the vote totals from 13,262 out of California's 14,683 precincts.

Fletcher Surprises

Lt. Charles K. Fletcher, who being on duty in the navy and therefore prohibited by regulations from making any speeches or taking any active part in the campaign in his own behalf, pulled the main surprise of the primary election voting in the 23rd congressional district. With all but 37 of San Diego county's 735 precincts heard from, Fletcher was only 872 votes behind the apparent winner of the nomination James B. Abbey.

Mrs. Kathryn T. Niehouse won both the republican and democratic nominations for the state assembly in the 79th district. Charles W. Stream won the republican nomination in the 80th assembly district and Robert F. Driver, led for the democratic.

Izac, An Easy Winner

Congressman Ed V. Izac was an easy winner for the democratic nomination for congress. Fletcher ran second, Abbey third and Jeanette E. Daley fourth.

De Graff Austin Wins

Councilman H. De Graff Austin easily won the contest for county supervisor in the first district. Returns from 145 out of the 162 precincts in the first district showed Austin way out in front of the five candidates, with a total of 7527 votes. His nearest competitor, George M. Sears had 2309 votes. Chester H. Webber was running third, Frank W. Heilman fourth and Harrison W. Mason fifth.

Chairman David Bird was unopposed for the second district nomination as county supervisor, but in the third district, Supervisor John P. Faddis was evidently nosed out by James A. Robbins of El Cajon for the nomination.

Surprise Vote for Judge

Another surprise of the primary was the vote on the judicial ballot for judge of the superior court, for the full term.

Predictions had been that Judge Jacob Weinberger would be reelected. Returns up to Thursday, however, showed Municipal Judge Joe L. Shell leading Weinberger by more than 9000 votes, and evidently was the winner. Judge Weinberger was unopposed for the short term. He had been a candidate for both the full term and the short term on the superior court bench.

VOTE 13 TO ONE FOR COUNTY WATER AUTHORITY

San Diego county voted more than 13 to one in favor of the "County Water Authority," a necessary preliminary to getting the extra Colorado river water that had been tentatively allocated to this county. A total of 57,393 voted "yes" and only 4,181 "no," according to the total vote compiled Thursday.

The primary returns as compiled Thursday, also showed that California voters approved the question of permitting the state to tax federal property by a vote of more than three to one. Totals showed 53,839 "yes" and 16,763 "no."

Two Ocean Beach Boys Rescued From Dangerous Surf

Gordon, 8, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Tribby, 4752 Del Monte ave., and Gebert, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Harper, 4720 Del Monte ave., had a close shave from drowning Saturday afternoon in the ocean here. They had slipped off a sand bar into deep water and neither boy could swim. Nearby lifeguards came to their rescue and pulled them to safety. Neither boy suffered any harmful after effects, but they got the scare of their young lives and the experience taught them a real lesson, Mrs. Tribby said Thursday.

Gebert slipped into the deep hole near a sand bar first and began hollering for help. Gordon at once ran to him and himself got over his depth in the surf and added his yells for help to that of Gebert.

The two boys are classmates in the same third grade room at the Ocean Beach school.

Eleven Others Rescued

Eleven other persons were pulled from the dangerous surf Sunday by the lifeguards from the beaches nearby, mostly at Mission Beach, Capt. Charles Hardy, head of the lifeguards here reported Monday.

Large crowds thronged the beaches all day Sunday, and a treacherous surf was running, he said.

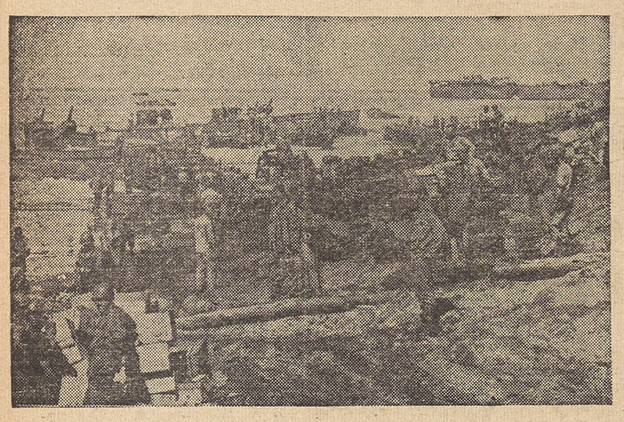
WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Nazi Rail Lines Hammered by Allies In Pre-Invasion Softening Process; Lend-Lease Grants Total 30 Billion; Stilwell Advances in Northern Burma

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.



Beachhead—There's more to establishing a beachhead than merely forcing a landing. At Aitape in Dutch New Guinea, Doughboys are shown bringing up supplies for continued operations.

EUROPE:
Nazi Preparations

As it was reported that the Germans were prepared to sacrifice 200,000 men along the "Atlantic Wall" to slow up the Allies' landing operations and allow the German high command opportunity to shift large reserves to the most critical battle areas, U. S. and British bombers continued their non-stop bombardment of enemy defense installations and communication lines to blast a forward path for the invasion forces.

As the zero hour approached, the Nazis sought to assure against Allied landings in Holland by preparing to flood the lowlands, part of which already have been inundated following the removal of the inhabitants.

Heavy U. S. and British aerial bombardments reportedly razed Nazi rail lines 100 miles inland from the channel coast, putting a severe crimp into the transport system over which the Nazis hoped to rush seasoned troops to encounter early Allied landings, possibly made in conjunction with a great Russian offensive in the east.

U. S. SEIZURE:
Congress Acts

Stirred by U. S. troop seizure of the Chicago plant of Montgomery Ward and company after the latter's refusal to extend a CIO union contract upon order of the War Labor board, both the senate and the house moved to review the whole field of wartime executive authority.

Rep. Dewey
Sen. Byrd

In introducing a resolution for studying the Ward case which was quickly adopted, Sen. Harry Byrd (Va.) said: "... The measure ... should lead to correction of legislation under which this (the Ward) seizure of a private business was made."

Previously, Rep. Charles Dewey (Ill.) called upon the house to authorize an investigation of the government's occupation of the Ward plant, a seizure nation's No. 2 mail order company contested in federal court on the ground it is no war industry, and an action the U. S. defended on the strength of its claim that the business sells productive machinery to farmers in advancement of the war effort.

MEAT:
Plenty on Hand

Reduction of government purchases of meat in the face of crowded warehouses and heavy hog receipts at markets resulted in OPA's removal of meat rationing except on beef steaks and roasts.

On April 1, warehouses held a near record of 1,246,813,000 pounds of meat compared with 780,806,000 pounds a year ago. Packing facilities were being stretched to the utmost as farmers continued heavy hog shipments, partly because of the tight feed supply recently aggravated by the government's embargo on all private corn sales in 125 midwest counties to divert stocks to industrial processors.

As a result of the government's program, virtually all wet corn millers were operating, with enough grain pledged for four months.

PACIFIC:
Stilwell Advances

Lieut. Gen. Joseph Stilwell's mixed U. S., Chinese and native Burmese troops pushed the Japs farther back in northern Burma in their drive to clear a new supply road to distressed China, while British and Indian forces continued to slow up the Japs' determined campaign to sever the Assam-Bengal rail line feeding General Stilwell's army.

In the South Pacific, U. S. troops strengthened their hold on the Hollandia area in Dutch New Guinea, while American bombers ranged up and down the island smashing at Jap bases supplying straggling enemy troops.

In addition to threatening General Stilwell's supply lines, the Jap drive in India reportedly was designed to establish India's Collaborationist Subhas Chandra Bose on native soil for an intensive propaganda drive to arouse the Hindus to revolt against the British.

LEND-LEASE:
30 Billion

Including special assistance given by other government agencies, lend-lease aid now approximates $30,362,687,362, the senate was told in considering extension of the act.

Broken down into loans, grants, investments, construction, purchases in foreign countries, current expenses and other aid and expenditures, the special assistance alone, chiefly extended by the army and navy, amounts to $8,500,000,000. Ordinary lend-lease assistance totals $21,794,237,819.

Of the $30,362,687,362 spent, Great Britain has received $19,700,297,674; Russia, $4,214,921,449; So. America, $2,327,378,789; China, $920,349,451.

SURPLUS MATERIAL:
Use Considered

With U. S. sales of surplus war goods already running between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000 monthly, the knotty problem of allowing production of civilian goods, with raw materials and scrap reverting to the government through termination of war contracts, has arisen.

Although some flatirons, alarm clocks, furniture, kitchenware, radio tubes, electric fans, stoves, kitchen ranges and bathtubs are scheduled for delivery in 1944, they are but a drop in the bucket compared with civilian requirements.

Despite the admitted surplus of many raw materials, the War Production board has opposed their appreciable use in civilian goods on the grounds that such manufacture would aggravate the manpower situation.

POLITICS:
Army Impartial

The ticklish problem of supplying U. S. soldiers with political information on the 1944 national elections was bravely approached by the war department, with emphasis firmly placed on impartiality.

Although doughboys will be permitted to read their favorite magazine or newspaper, the war department ruled that in radio broadcasts and service publications, equal time or space must be granted to both sides.

Motion pictures and entertainments also drew the attention of the war department, with no partial material to be tolerated in either source, and commanding officers to closely guard against the revision of scripts violating the regulation.

HIGHLIGHTS ... in the week's news

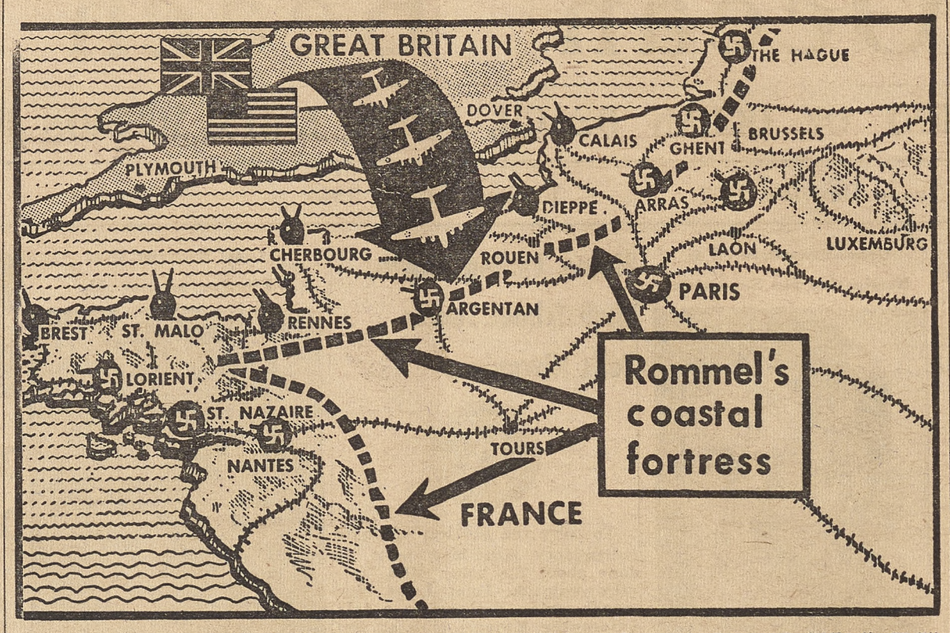
POSTAL NOTES: A plan to provide "postal notes" for transmission of money by mail in sums under ten dollars for a flat five-cent fee is being considered by the senate postal committee. The house has already approved the proposal. These notes would not supplant the use of the regular money order for small sums but would be a convenient addition to the postal services.

DESIGNER: Paul Poiret, 64, once among the world's most famous fashion designers, died in Paris virtually a pauper.

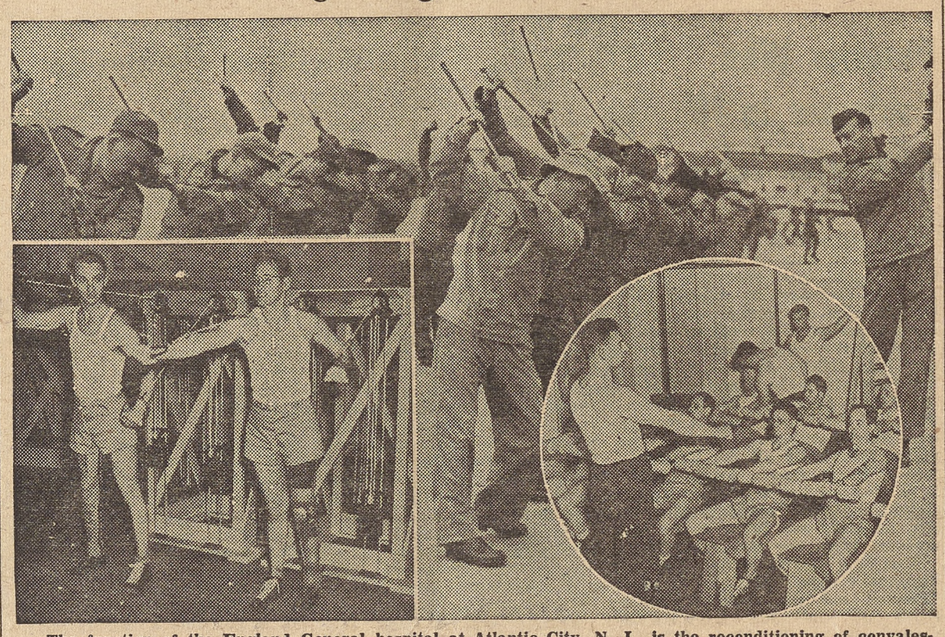
RAYON HOSE: More thin rayon hosiery will be produced and less of the heavier grades, by permission of the War Production board. The industry has been complaining that women were not buying the better wearing heavier lines.

Hitler, Rommel, Visit 'Atlantic Wall'



Eleventh-hour inspection tours of the vast Axis coastal defenses known as Germany's "Atlantic Wall" are being made by Marshal Rommel, according to news dispatches, which say that Hitler has made personal "pre-invasion visits." Rommel is reported making day-by-day tours of areas shown on the above map, which provides a general picture of the coastal fortress. Broken line indicates territory referred to as "Rommel's defense zone." Swastikas indicate points which have been mentioned as "Rommel's command forts."

Reconditioning Program Reclaims Wounded



The function of the England General hospital at Atlantic City, N. J., is the reconditioning of convalescent soldiers and officers before being sent back to duty. In picture at top, Sergt. Vic Ghezzi, former national PGA champion (1942) instructs a class, using golf clubs for exercises. Lower left: Two soldiers, both wounded in Sicily, exercise on the pulleys. Each was recipient of the Purple Heart and other decorations. Circle: Sergt. Sam Goldman of Cleveland, Ohio, leads a class of soldiers in abdominal exercises.

Kings and Queen of Health

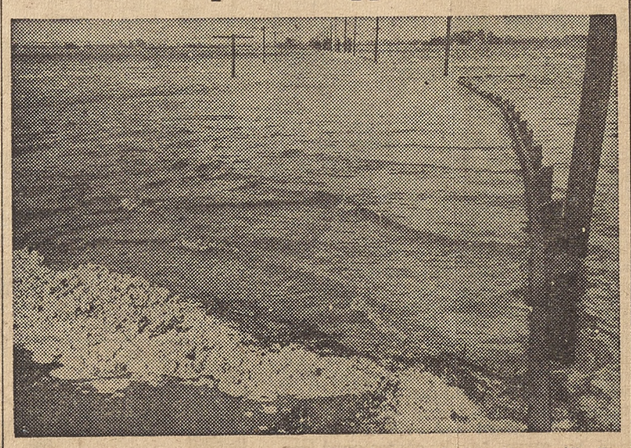
'Fashion Note'

Miss Linwood Gisclard, Louisiana belle, who holds title of "Maid of Cotton," shows her dress to Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt at the canteen fashion show in Washington. The dress is made of some $2,000 worth of war bonds and stamps.

Floods Sweep Mississippi River Valley



Floods have been sweeping the Mississippi river valley, with the water at an all-time high in the St. Louis terrain, inundating great stretches of agricultural land, making many homeless, and wreaking untold property damage. Here is water flowing over the chain of rocks bridge highway, where a break in the Chouteau island levee loosed great floods of water.

WAC Summer Gear

"G. I. Jane" proudly exhibits a new summer uniform as an enlisted member of the WAC. The blouse and skirt are of the same tropical worsted material as that worn by officers of the corps.

Airplane Tires

Most of the military airplane tires are now being made with either rayon or nylon.

Bleaching Beeswax

Bleaching beeswax to white wax is accomplished either by repeated melting in water or by exposure to sunlight or by the application of mild oxidizing agents. This material is pure white or slightly yellow in color, and odorless and tasteless. Its specific gravity is slightly higher than yellow wax and it is more brittle than the latter. Beeswax is not greasy when touched by the hand. In its molten state, however, if dropped on paper it causes a permanent transparent spot. Commercial grades of beeswax always contain small amounts of plant pollen.

U. S. Hogs Grow Bristles

A survey by the Illinois Manufacturers' association discloses that the American hog now has begun to supply the bristles needed for manufacture of paint brushes. Previous to the war, the main supply of bristles came from China. The hogs of northern Minnesota are credited with growing the best American bristles.

Plastic Weatherstrip

A new plastic weatherstrip tape has been made which may be applied around windows, transoms and crevices without tacks, brads or tools. Being removable, the tape may be taken off after the cold weather, and may be stored and reused when needed.

AN INDEPENDENT PAPER

Thanks for the Welcome

The new owners of the Ocean Beach News, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin F. Swan, wish to take this opportunity to express our thanks to the many good people of Ocean Beach who already have welcomed us to this attractive, progressive community. We were told that it is a distinct community, separated from the main city of San Diego and that it has its own particular attractions and advantages and that it has a set of people who are unusually friendly. Already we are finding these advance assurances correct, and we consider ourselves fortunate in having cast our lot in Ocean Beach. We are more than pleased with the welcome that has been accorded us.

Coming here as strangers, naturally we are somewhat handicapped for the time being in getting out the issues of the paper, especially in the matter of getting the news. That will be corrected as we get better acquainted with the sources of news. In the meantime we will greatly appreciate, and we know our many readers will appreciate, if these sources of news will make a special effort to bring to this office or telephone us at Bayview 3157 the news of the meetings of their organizations as well as of the various community activities.

In "getting on to the ropes" at the News office, we are necessarily tied down close to the office, our first duty being to provide newspaper and job printing service to all customers coming to the shop. As rapidly as opportunity offers we aim to call on and meet the business men and to cooperate with them in working out their advertising programs.

Like other lines of business, newspapering also is handicapped during the "duration" by lack of manpower, and for that reason the cooperation of the Ocean Beach folks in getting their news and advertising copy in early in the week will be all the more appreciated, and will enable us to take more pains with the printing thereof.

We especially wish to publicly thank Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hartvigsen, of whom we bought this newspaper, for their great help in getting out the first two issues of the News this month.

Congratulations La Mesa Scout

Congratulations to H. C. Reed and Carlyle Reed, publishers, and their newspaper, the La Mesa Scout on their 28-page issue of May 12, the extra pages being occasioned by the effort the progressive community east of San Diego is making to insure an adequate water supply to that section of the county. The issue is labeled a "Water" edition by the Messrs. Reed.

Showing that the business men of that city are behind the effort to get more water, they have almost unanimously shown their interest in and support of the project by their advertising announcements in this special issue of the Scout.

Coming from Idaho, where water literally has "made" the country and where he has had first-hand knowledge of what lack of water does in holding back the development of a state, the writer takes this occasion to commend the La Mesa Scout publishers and the progressive business men of La Mesa.

Tractor Riding "Grandma" Praises War Bond League

Mrs. K. C. Henkle of Kenton, Ohio, does more than her share of war work. She and her husband run two farms at maximum production and with almost no outside help. In addition, Mrs. Henkle is chairman in her township for War Bond sales, for the Red Cross and for the combined scrap paper and grease salvage campaign. She is also a writer and has composed poems for War Bond and Red Cross programs over Stations WMRN, Marion, and WLW, Cincinnati.

Mrs. Henkle, who has an Army son, a Navy son, and an Army son-in-law, enthusiastically endorses Mrs. George C. Marshall's appeal to grandmothers to buy Bonds for their grandchildren. She herself takes turns buying Bonds for her five grandchildren ranging in age from 4 months to 11 years. "Those Bonds," she says, "will help educate the children and set them up in businesses and farms ten happy years from now."

The Grandmothers League was founded by General Marshall's wife and has been widely accepted as a worthy and unselfish Bond-buying drive.

Tire Shortage Remains Acute

SAN DIEGO, May 16th.—San Diego county truck fleet owners, civic leaders and government officials met last night in San Diego club here to consider ways to overcome the critical tire shortage which threatens to immobilize vital transportation.

Pointing out that enough tires cannot be made even with the increased capacity of such factories as the United States Rubcompany Los Angeles unit, C. L. Dorman, U. S. tire distributor and chairman of the meeting, said that the solution was up to the vehicle owners and repair men. Careful conservation and proper recapping was the only way essential war transportation could be kept rolling, he said.

It was revealed that the United States Rubber company Los Angeles plant is now in production on a new method of constructing truck tires with synthetic rubber which adds up to 40 percent to their life. A minimum amount of crude rubber is inlaid on the tire fabric directly under the tread where the greatest strain and heat generation occur. Eleven million miles of comparison tests proved that a synthetic rubber truck tire constructed in this way using red rayon cord, will wear as long as a pre-war natural rubber tire with cotton cord.

The truck and tire men were presented with a system of tire recording which gives accurate information on the wear and qualities of each tire owned.

Seven ways were given by which truck owners can keep their vehicles rolling. These were:

1. Be sure to have loads both ways.
2. Keep speeds of trucks to government regulations.
3. Drive carefully.
4. Keep truck tires inflated to manufacturers regulations.
5. Consult tire men on cuts and breaks and have tires switched regularly.
6. Report bad spots on roads and highways.
7. Recap at the right time. (Before it is too late; not too soon before tread is worn off).

Babson Discusses Modern Youth

BABSON PARK, Mass., April 28.—We hear much regarding the delinquency of youth. Many parents are having difficulties in keeping their teen-age children at home and off the streets. This especially applies to communities near army camps, naval bases, air field and munition plants. I'm told, however, that in most cases the parents of these children are to blame because they, themselves, do not stay home. They set their teen-age children a very poor example. Furthermore, for every young person found on the streets at night probably several grown-ups can be found carousing in night clubs. Therefore, I feel that the first step is for a community to clear up its "delinquent parent" situation.

Hats Off to American Youth

During the past few weeks which I spent in Florida, I've seen many soldiers. Babson Park is near the great Avon Park Army Air Field which contains the largest practice bombing field in the world. This has given me an opportunity to meet, not only men in training, but men who have returned from all parts of the world. They certainly are a marvelous group. It is almost beyond human understanding what these boys, 20-25 years of age, are accomplishing. They truly possess a character, intelligence and training far in excess of what boys of that age had when I was in college 40 years ago.

However, I wish to write on the business judgment—rather than on the fighting ability—of these young men. The tendency of us oldsters is to judge industry and investments through our own eyes and based upon our own experience. If young people don't agree with us, we naturally assume that we are right and the young people are wrong. I have felt this way for many years; but I am gradually changing my ideas. Without doubt we are entering a new era. Such new eras come only once in about 200 years. It is difficult for us older people to adjust ourselves to these new conditions to judge things correctly by the new standards.

Consult More With Young People

I often attend conferences where these questions are discussed: "The future of railroads vs. aviation?" "Will utilities become municipally owned?" "Will the government go more into business in order to provide employment?" At these meetings we older people think we are to determine what is to happen to our investments. We make a great mistake in figuring on any such false assumption. The answers will be determined by the young people in our families and employment. Even the future of the New Deal lies with these boys and girls.

Do not be shocked by this but I believe that the opinion of most persons in the twenties as to the future of any industry or political policy is more valuable than the opinion of most persons over 50 years of age. The reason is that the future of the industry or policy depends upon what these young persons are going to buy, or do, or vote—not according to what we older ones buy, do, or vote. I had rather have the opinion of an intelligent 25 years old returning service man on the future of most American industries than that of a conservative investment counselor who is judging the future by the past.

What Youth Thinks About U. S. Bonds

Recently I was with a group of officers including graduates from Harvard Business school, Wharton School of Finance, Northwestern university and Babson institute. We discussed what would happen, after the war, to our government bonds in case the debt reaches $300,000,000,000. These are the boys who will decide the question of whether or not the debt is to be refunded and, if so, how? It will not be decided by present Treasury officials, nor by present officers of banks or insurance companies. I will repeat the suggestions of three of these boys:

Suggestion No. 1: "I believe that the government debt of all nations should be reorganized as would be the debt of a railroad which has become too unwieldy. The holder of a $1000 government bond could be given $250 in a new 2½% 30-year coupon bond; $500 in a registered income bond, the interest on which could be payable at various rates according to the receipts from a new sales tax levied for this purpose; and $250 in non-interest-bearing script which could be used for the payment of certain taxes. This would immediately cut the fixed interest payment down 75% and yet every bondholder should eventually get his principal back with interest depending upon the prosperity of the country."

Suggestion No. 2: "Let other countries readjust their debts in the above manner; but I shall never vote to have the United States do anything which could be called repudiation in the slightest degree. I believe a debt of $300,000,000,000 can be supported and should be supported so that every one will get his full interest and some day his principal. All we need do is to revalue the dollar by printing more currency and thus cause an increase in national incomes proportionate to the increase in our national debt. Istead of cutting down the war debt, let us inflate prices, wages, land values, etc. Then it will be just as easy to pay interest on $300, 000,000,000 as it was to pay interest on 25% of this amount a few years ago."

Suggestion No. 3: "I have a better idea than either of you other men," said the third soldier. "I oppose either a reorganization of the debt or inflation. Both ideas are wrong. I recommend refunding the entire debt of $300,000,000,000, for one hundred years—with a ½ of 1% coupon. Then I should allow these bonds to be used at par for the payment of taxes and I should support them with a Federal sales tax, the income from which could be used to call bonds by lot at a premium of 10%. A small sales tax will easily give the government $3,300,000,000 a year which would repay the entire debt within 100 years. It is true that these bonds might at times sell at less than par; but —the fact that $3,000,000,000 would be called each year by lot at 110—should hold prices pretty close to par. This means that taxes could be greatly reduced, inflation avoided and everyone could receive par for his bonds plus as much interest as the big banks of New York are now paying depositors."

What About Russia?

Do not quote me as making any of these recommendations. I merely give these illustrations to show how modern youth is thinking and to urge readers to give more attention to the "crazy" ideas of our young people. They are the ones that will determine what will happen to the national debt and to every stock and bond. I do not say that youths have better judgment than their parents; nor that they are less likely to change their minds. All I say is that our returning service men should be better able to forecast the future.

Many people worry as to what extent the Russian shadow is to fall upon this country, especially during the next depression. They see Russia becoming such a world power that they fear she will Russianize Europe and England and that the effects of this will ultimately be felt in America. This certainly seems reasonable; but a 22-year-old flier, returned from delivering airplanes to Russia, said to me: "Don't worry about Russia. She will have her own postwar troubles. Sixteen Russian generals are already planning to get Stalin's berth."

Tax Levy Higher Than Last Year

Property taxes levied in San Diego county for the current year total $13,894,506, compared with the total levy of $13,327,751 for 1942-43, California Taxpayers' association stated today, analyzing trends in property tax levies in California counties.

City property taxes in the county totalled $4,063,591 this year, compared with $3,700,313 last year. General county taxes amounted to $5,033,558 for 1943-44, compared with $5,176,912 for last year. Taxes levied for the school districts in the county totalled $4,754,953 this year, compared with $4,410,927 for last year. Special district levies this year amounted to $42,404 compared with $39,599 for 1942-43.

Throughout the state, property tax levies amount to $313,475,145 for 1943-44, down about one percent from the $316,780,015 levy for 1942-43, the association found.

The Red Cross In Ocean Beach

By ONA E. PITCOCK

Vincent Desmond, one of our boys in the hospital celebrated his 23rd birthday on May 10. One of our ladies baked for him an angel food cake and trimmed it in pink and white. We sent pink candles and birthday napkins with the cake and a box of three dozen cup cakes. Vincent and two of his friends had a party around three o'clock that afternoon and Miss Nye of Camp and Hospital permitted me to listen in over the telephone. What a time they were having! Just to hear them was pay enough for the time it took to bake the cakes.

The Sacajawea girl scouts sent in seven boxes of cookies, 23 phonograph records, 22 puzzles and some comic books for the boys in the hospital for Mother's day. Mrs. Gordon Lilley is doing a wonderful job training these girls and should be proud of them.

Last week we finished the last drapes for Camp Pendleton. They were taken to the camp on Saturday.

Mrs. Luzelle Oberhellman of 4856 Saratoga ave. underwent an operation at Naval hospital last week. She is doing well.

This is a critical time in this war and never was plasma and surgical dressings so badly needed. Please go to the marine base or Loma Portal school and make dressings as many days a week as you possibly can and also call F-7704 and make an appointment to give your blood to save a boy's life. Don't let our men down now.

Come or call your local Red Cross "Center" B-5639 and see what you can do to help in production.

Write to your men folks overseas or in the U. S. training camps. Nothing takes the place of a letter from home.

The "Center" is open Monday through Friday from 9 until 5 but is closed Saturday and Sunday.

RECORDS FOR THE WOUNDED

A record or two of a song or musical piece will cheer the boys in the Naval hospital who are wounded, the Sacajawea troop know very well, and so as their project, under the leadership of Mrs. Gordon Lilley, a record collection will be made.

By calling Mrs. Lilley, B-5029, the troop will call for records available in this community even though it be only one or many.

Boy Scouts Talk About Summer Camp

Troop 28, Boy Scouts of America, at the weekly meeting held May 5, discussed the summer camp, which is to be held from June 20 to June 27. The boys enjoyed thoroughly a new outside game, called "Fighter Planes and Pilots." Howard Mayfield and Ramon Vose underwent the tenderfoot investiture ceremony and were initiated into the troop in the presence of their parents. The members of the troop were notified that a medical examination would be necessary for camp entrance. The meeting was dismissed at 9:05 with the scoutmaster's benediction.

Meeting of May 12

Report of the May 12 meeting follows:

The meeting was brought to order at 7:15 p.m., the colors were advanced and the flag salute was given. There was a discussion on camp and the activities at camp. We had an outside game of "Sink the Ship."

Verlyn Miller, was voted into the troop and will receive his initiation on Friday, May 19. The meeting was dismissed after the scoutmaster's benediction at 9:25 p.m.

State's Gasoline Tax Up From Year Ago

SACRAMENTO, May 12. — William G. Bonelli, Los Angeles member of the State Board of Equalization, today announced completion of California gasoline tax assessments for March amounting to $4,107,147, in contrast to $3,846,886 for the same month a year ago.

Although this is a continuation of the upward trend registered in January and February, Bonelli pointed out that the percentage of gain is substantially smaller than that for each of the earlier months. Continuing his analysis of the figures, he made these comparisons:

"March gasoline taxes, measured by distributions of 136,904,891 gallons, were $260,261, or 6.76 percent, over those of a year ago. February taxes were correspondingly greater by $503,255, or 15.4 percent, while those for January marked a gain of $636,051, or 19.26 percent. Thus the curve of the increase has made a decided dip."

Will you help their calls get through this evening?

Evening is about the only time most service men have to call. Then there is a rush on Long Distance lines from camps, naval stations and air bases.

You can help by leaving the lines from seven to ten for the service men.

This is the 75th Anniversary of the Golden Spike

May God continue the unity of our Country as this Railroad unites the two great Oceans of the world.
Presented by David Hewes San Francisco.

This is the Golden Spike

It was donated for the occasion by David Hewes of San Francisco. The spike is now the property of Stanford University and is kept in the vaults of the Wells Fargo Bank.

...but we can't take time out to celebrate

Ordinarily we'd make quite a fuss over such an event as the 75th anniversary of America's first transcontinental railroad—of which Southern Pacific is a part. We'd have a "Diamond Jubilee," with ceremonies, celebrations, banquets and all the trimmings.

But in May, 1944, Southern Pacific people will have little time to honor the men who built the first railroad across America and drove its last spike home on May 10, 1869. We're too busy keeping the war trains rolling on our 15,000 miles of line.

The historic line that rounded the northern end of Great Salt Lake to Promontory, where the Golden Spike was driven, was replaced by the Lucin Cut-off. The old rails have long since been torn up and sent to war.

But if it were possible to send a message back through the corridors of Time, we would send the grateful thanks of a railroad at war to those determined men who conquered the Sierra 75 years ago...

...to Leland Stanford, Mark Hopkins, Charles Crocker and Collis P. Huntington, the "Big Four" who pooled their slender resources, convinced Congress that California must be linked by rail with the other United States, and pushed the railroad through in spite of heart-breaking obstacles.

...to the thousands of Chinese workmen who helped lift the line over the Sierra Nevada with nothing but wheelbarrows, picks and shovels, and black powder... who hung from the cliffs in baskets and chipped the roadbed out of solid granite. They helped build a railroad that helps China now.

...to the eight indomitable Irishmen who, on April 28, 1869, laid ten miles and 56 feet of track in a single day—a record that has never been equalled.

The railroad they built is now a vital link in America's supply lines for the war against Japan. The railroad men and women who "keep 'em rolling" today salute the men who accomplished so much with so little, 75 years ago.

With Ernie Pyle at the Front

Large Number of Americans Alter London's Complexion

Few Who Have Been in Italy Can Conjure Up Any Fond Memories of That Front

By Ernie Pyle.

LONDON.—Well, here we are again in dear old London town. At least they still call it London, although you can hardly see the city for the Americans. But before going into that I'll tell you about our trip up here.

The morning I left Italy I had to get up at dawn to catch the plane. Sergt. Harry Cowe, who was a part of the gang I had been living with, somehow managed to get both himself and me up right on the dot.

It was so early I hadn't wanted or expected anybody else to get up. But while I was still rubbing my eyes in came Pvt. Don Jordan with a beautiful breakfast tray of juice, eggs, bacon, toast and coffee, just as though we weren't at war at all.

Ernie Pyle

But that wasn't all. Our Italian boy, Reif (pronounced "Rafe"), who ordinarily didn't come to work till 8 o'clock, showed up just as it was starting to get daylight.

Reif was a grand kid, smart and agreeable and full of good humor, and I'm sure he had never been so happy in his life as when working in our little madhouse. He had come voluntarily to help rassle my luggage out to the airport.

And last but not least, in another minute here came prancing in my tiny little friend Lieut. Maxine Budeman, the nurse-dietitian from the nearby army hospital. She is from Kalamazoo, Mich., and everybody calls her Goldielocks. She is just shoulder high and weighs approximately 90 pounds.

A couple of months ago, when I was wasting away with anemia, Goldielocks kept sneaking me eggs and steak from the hospital. We had a lot of fun joking with the nurses about my meager hemaglobin and my one corpuscle and it was Goldielocks who undoubtedly saved my life with her surreptitious calories.

At the airport Rief lugged in my bedroll and bags for me and I got all set for the plane. Then we started to say goodby. We four were standing beside a command car. A group of officers and soldiers stood nearby, idly watching us, while they waited for their planes. Our little goodby sequence must have given them a chuckle or two.

First I shook hands with Harry. And then, since pretty nurses don't come into one's life every day, I managed to inflict upon Goldielocks a goodby kiss that must have shaken Rome. And then I turned to shake hands with Reif.

But Reif, instead, grabbed me by both shoulders and in true continental fashion implanted a large Italian smack first on my right cheek and then on my left. Our audience was astonished, and so was I. And though slightly embarrassed, I must admit I was also sort of pleased. There are swell people in any nation, and I know that in our crazy little group there was a genuine fondness for many of our Italian friends.

Thus buoyed and puffed up by this international osculation I floated onto the plane and we were off. On the way out we flew right past the magnificence of Vesuvius, but I was feeling badly about leaving and didn't even want to look out or look back, so I didn't.

We flew most of the day and far into the night. Crossing the Mediterranean I knotted myself up on top of a pile of mail sacks and slept half the trip away.

And then, in a different plane, over western Algeria and Morocco, I got myself a blanket, stretched out on the floor and slept for hours. The sun was just setting when I woke up.

I've written many times that war isn't romantic to the people in it. Seldom have I ever felt any drama about the war or about myself in two years overseas. But here in that plane all of a sudden things did seem romantic.

A heavy darkness had come inside the cabin. Passengers were indistinct shapes, kneeling at the windows to absorb the spell of the hour. The remnants of the sun streaked the cloud-banked horizon ahead, making it vividly red and savagely beautiful.

We were high, and the motors throbbed in a timeless rhythm. Below us were the green peaks of the Atlas mountains, lovely in the softening shroud of the dusk. Villages with red roofs nestled on the peak tops. Down there lived sheep men—obscure mountain men who had never heard of a nebelwerfer or a bazooka. Men at home at the end of the day in the poor, narrow, beautiful security of their own walls.

And there high in the sky above and yet part of it all were plain Americans incongruously away from home. For a moment it seemed terribly dramatic that we should be there at all amid that darkening beauty so far away and so foreign and so old.

It was one of those moments impossible to transmit to another mind. A moment of overpowering beauty, of the surge of a marching world, of the relentlessness of our own fate. It made you want to cry.

Some people laugh and say, "Well, that's the tip-off. When you arrive in England, the invasion must be about ready."

That, I assume, is a jibe at me for having dinner with generals and supposedly getting all the inside dope.

They flatter me, for I don't know a bit more about the invasion than you do. I've intended going to England all along, and the only reason I held off till now was to wait for warm weather up there. These old bones ain't what they used to be—they never were, as far as I can remember—and spending a winter in sunny Italy (ha!) hasn't helped them.

At any rate, I did hate to leave. I had been in that war theater so long that I think of myself as a part of it. I'm not in the army, but I felt sort of like a deserter at leaving.

There is some exhilaration there and some fun, along with the misery and the sadness, but on the whole it has been bitter. Few of us can ever conjure up any truly fond memories of the Italian campaign.

The enemy has been hard, and so have the elements. Men have had to stay too long in the lines. A few men have borne a burden they felt should have been shared by many more.

There is little solace for those who have suffered, and none at all for those who have died, in trying to rationalize about why things in the past were as they were.

I look at it this way—if by having only a small army in Italy we have been able to build up more powerful forces in England, and if by sacrificing a few thousand lives here this winter we can save half a million lives in Europe this summer—if these things are true, then it was best as it was.

I'm not saying they are true. I'm only saying you've got to look at it that way or else you can't bear to think of it at all. Personally, I think they are true.

I want to pay a kind of tribute to a little group of people I've never mentioned before. They are the enlisted men of the various army public relations units who drive us correspondents around and feed us and look after us. They are in the army and subject to ordinary discipline, yet they live and work with men who are free and undisciplined. It is hard for any man to adjust himself to such a paradoxical life. But our boys have done it, and retained both their capabilities and their dignity.

I wish I could mention them all. The few I can mention will have to represent the whole crew of many dozens of them. . . .

There are drivers such as Delmar Richardson of Ft. Wayne, Ind., and Paul Zimmer of Oakland, Calif., and Jerry Benane of Minneapolis. They take care of the bulk of the correspondents, and it is only a miracle none of them has been wounded. They remain courteous and willing, despite a pretty irritating sort of life.

Then there are such boys as Corp. Thomas Castleman of my own town of Albuquerque, who rides his motorcycle over unspeakable roads through punishing weather to carry our dispatches to some filing point.

And then there is Pvt. Don Jordan, probably the most remarkable of all the PRO men I know. Don is a New England blueblood from Welles, Mo., and Attleboro, Mass. He is a Brown university man, a dealer in antiques, a writer. He talks with a Boston accent.

And do you know what he does? He cooks. He not only cooks, but he cooks with a flash and an imagination that makes eating at our place a privilege. And on top of that, he runs the place as bookkeeper, house mother, translator and fulfiller of all requests.

MASCOTS IN ITALY

I've told you time and again about the dogs our soldiers have taken as pets and mascots. Running second to dogs, I believe, are Italian kids. There's no way of estimating how many Italian boys have been adopted by our troops, but there must be hundreds.

An outfit will pick up some kid, usually one who has been orphaned by bombing and has no home and no place to go. The children come along of their free will, of course.

Justice Is Sole Principle Guiding Steps of UNRRA

Relief and Rehabilitation Program Claims Support of Congressmen Noted for Internationalist Viewpoint.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building Washington, D. C.

While the bombs are bursting over Europe, it is pretty hard to think of postwar activities. America just doesn't like to do it. Furthermore, it is perfectly natural that, after our experience in the last war, when we talk about "relief" for Europe, we feel we don't want to play the role of "Uncle Sap" again.

The one organization which has gone ahead with very definite, specifically delimited plans for civilian international activity, is the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation administration. Forty-four nations have combined to set up this organization and finance its work.

The United States' part in this organization has the specific authorization of Congress. But it never could have had this backing if it hadn't been for the wholehearted cooperation of certain men in Congress whom nobody by the greatest stretch of imagination could label as internationalists. One of them largely responsible for the unopposed authorization by congress for the $1,350,000,000 which is America's contribution to the UNRRA fund was Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, a member of the foreign relations committee, who cannot be described as an "internationalist." He supported UNRRA in this way after a long and careful consultation with the State department concerning the administration's obligations which the United States had to accept if it joined this body of 44 nations. Vandenberg was supported by representatives of the delegation from Ohio, among others, a middle western state not noted for international tendencies.

I asked a member of the UNRRA staff why he thought these people were convinced that the United States ought to take part in this humanitarian movement which although it proclaimed ultra-practical aims might naturally be doubted by the cynical.

"Nobody who has read the limitations which this organization has placed upon itself could have the crust to oppose it," was his answer.

Selling Point

At that moment, I took this rather categorical statement with a grain of salt. Later, after talking with Morse Salisbury, who is well known over the air to many of the readers of this column and all of the listeners to the "Farm and Home Hour," I must admit I was sold.

Morse Salisbury gave up an important position in the department of agriculture which he had held through various administrations to handle the public relations for UNRRA under former governor of New York Herbert Lehmann, its administrator. I broke in on him when he was puzzling over the question of an emblem or flag or a designation for UNRRA—somebody thought it ought to have a distinguishing insignia but he was unconvinced and then he said something to me which is important to remember.

"Here is one governmental institution — governmental in the sense that 44 nations are backing it—which, instead of wishing to perpetuate itself, as most bureaucratic units are said to do, has for its chief aim—self liquidation. Like the boys in the front lines, it wants to get the job done and then quit."

The object of UNRRA is to do what it can to resolve to normalcy the chaos produced by the war and then quit.

For that reason, former Governor Lehmann has set as one of his objectives the keeping of the number of administrative employees down to the absolute minimum. I'll have more to say about that later, first just a very brief summary of what UNRRA has set as its objective, how it hopes to obtain the objective, as set forth in its so-called "bible," containing the official statement of the resolutions of the organization. This is the document which I was told if anyone read he would not have the crust to oppose the UNRRA program.

On November 9, 1943, the representatives of these 44 nations met in the White house and signed an agreement to cooperate in binding up the wounds of war. Later, they met in Atlantic City and drew up resolutions spelling out what would be done under the agreement.

Since they knew the bitterness and controversy which grew out of the unpaid war loans of the last war, one prime purpose is to achieve their aim without running up a lot of uncollectible debts. In other words, they got down to brass tacks and decided that their effort to restore normalcy in the world should be accomplished on a very simple principle of justice. They divided up the world into two categories. First, those who have enough of the things needed to feed and clothe and house their people, and those who don't. Then there is another division between those who, while they don't have the basic resources, nevertheless have the money to pay for them.

All of the nations which have enough to take care of their own people are to contribute 1 per cent of their national income as of the year ending June 30, 1943.

Those nations like France and Holland and Belgium and Norway and others which have been able to get gold or other wealth away from the Axis robbers and into Allied or neutral countries expect to pay for the supplies they get.

Those countries which have no foreign trade or credit balance abroad will receive supplies and services to bring their people up to a rather stern standard of living and get normal daily life started again. The supplies contributed will be put into regular business channels and most of the people who get them will pay in their own money. Of course, this money would have no value outside of the country involved. It would, however, have value within the country and UNRRA would take, we will say in the case of Greece, drachmas for the supplies delivered.

No Big Payroll

Those drachmas would be spent within the country and will help carry out the principle which Governor Lehmann has laid down—that UNRRA itself will not develop a big payroll. It will help the people to help themselves. Let me give you an example:

The Greeks haven't enough food. Their various public utilities are smashed to pieces, they have no shoes to walk on, their hospitals and other health institutions have been destroyed or disintegrated. All right. UNRRA will set down a certain number of pairs of shoes in Greece—it will set down a certain amount of food, a certain amount of clothing, a certain amount of machinery and other supplies—that will be paid for in drachmas which are nothing more than pieces of paper as far as the rest of the country is concerned, but which have a cash value in Greece.

They will take those drachmas and hire personnel, people who will arrange to load the supplies into trucks at the ports where UNRRA sets them down and handle the distribution of food and clothing through the agencies within the country; they will do the dirty work of rebuilding the waterworks and electric light plants, the public schools and other buildings necessary for an ordered life. Thus employment will be furnished out of the nation's own wealth.

This is a very brief attempt to show how UNRRA works but as I sat in the Du Pont building on Connecticut avenue and heard Mr. Salisbury, who is one of the most practical-minded government officials with whom I have dealt in my 30 years experience in Washington, detail UNRRA's activities, I began to feel quite an emotional upsurge. Salisbury may have felt it too but, of course, he wouldn't show it any more than I would since both of us are laconic middle-westerners.

I said: "Isn't this whole idea an historical innovation?" He replied: "Well, yes. But don't think the 44 member nations are laying any pattern for postwar planning in UNRRA. They have created here an organization of a purely transitional nature. It's merely an attempt on the part of the nations which have something to offer to provide it. If the others can pay for the food and clothing and other things they get, they are willing to pay for it. If they can't, the contributing nations are going to get it to them."

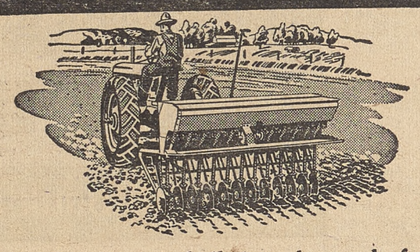
Get EXTRA TRACTION BAR LENGTH AT No Extra Cost

and YOU WILL GET EXTRA TRACTION, BETTER CLEANING and LONGER LIFE TOO!



FIRESTONE traction bars are built into the tread of a farm tractor tire to serve just one purpose. That purpose is to give traction.

Because the traction bar is the source of pulling power of tractor tires, it is obvious that greater traction bar length gives greater traction. By the same token, a shortened traction bar design, such as the broken center, gives less traction.

Firestone Ground Grip Tractor Tires provide up to 215 extra inches of traction bar length per tractor at no extra cost. And the bars are joined in the center to form a powerful, triple-braced, leakproof traction unit.

That's why farmers prefer tires built by Firestone, the pioneer and pacemaker in putting the farm on rubber.

DISTRICT No. 7
Bayview 6101

The service of block leaders under the San Diego Defense council is needed in giving information to parents on the variety of activities to be available for children of all ages this summer. It is particularly important that mothers who are working have full information on the plans now being made for children in every part of the city. Any one desiring this information may obtain a bulletin from their block leader. Those block leaders who do not have a supply of these bulletins or those leaders who need additional copies may obtain them at Mrs. Miller's, 4645 Saratoga ave.

We have word from several of our women who are joining together in a little sewing circle getting busy on the much needed slippers. Of course the much mentioned lap or jeep robes are still in demand, however we have been asked to make them up now in a larger size, 1½ yards by 2 yards. Should you have any of the robes now completed in the smaller size they can be turned in just as they are for these small size robes will still be used.

Now, another word about the first aid and home nursing classes. There must be a number of folks who have not as yet either had first aid or home nursing. May we urge these people to contact Mrs. Leadbeater, Bayview 6101, in order that a class or classes may be formed. We have been advised by Mrs. Louise Graham, our representative in Red Cross that the instructors now being sent out to these classes are better informed and trained in the latest methods that are the outgrowth of experience learned thru the war.

(Bertha K. Leadbeater)

Club Women Hear History of Mobile

Mobile, Alabama under five flags, "Cowbellian de Rakins," New Year's eve celebration, which was originated in 1831, and the nationally known Bellingrath gardens were among the many interesting subjects Mrs. Lawrence Krettler told about in a talk given at the May 11 meeting of the Ocean Beach Woman's club held in the club rooms on Abbott street. Mrs. Krettler, a past president of the local club, recently returned from a long stay in the southern city and displayed real photographs of iron-lace trimmed mansions, moss covered churches and other types of historical buildings still in daily use.

Since the founding of Mobile in 1699 by Iberville's French colony the city was next to be capital of the Louisiana Purchase in 1711 and re-named Fort Charlotte by the British in 1763, and when the British possessions on the Gulf of Mexico yielded to Spain February 1780 the name of Mobile was also regained and remained under the Spanish flag until the American domination in 1813, she said. Then in 1861 the city became Confederate and in the spring of 1865 the stars and stripes flew over Mobile again, the speaker said.

The old city's complete victory over all the different influences and many catastrophes, including yellow fever epidemics, great magazine explosions, destructive hurricanes and waters of the bay driven into the rivers flooding the tree lined streets and stately homes were highlighted in the closing remarks of Mrs. Krettler's talk.

Mrs. E. A. Kineman was in charge of the tea hour and was assisted by Mrs. J. F. Fischer and Mrs. Ella Smith. The June 8 meeting will be given over to installation of new officers and social which will close the club's activities for the year.

CARD ROOMS NOT WANTED, POLL SHOWS

Based on the replies to the poll conducted by the Ocean Beach News on the question of card rooms in Ocean Beach, the people here evidently are opposed to the operation of card rooms. Returns from the poll, as shown by the replies that came to this office, indicate that 93 percent of the Ocean Beach folks are not in favor of the card rooms, and only seven percent in favor.

Local Man Manages Convair Ball Team

Henry Schustza of 4966 Saratoga ave. is the manager and coach of Convair's A softball team, which began play Wednesday evening, in a game with the San Diego Eagles on the Horace Mann school diamond. The Eagles won 4 to 0.

Schustza, who is a former football coach at Fort Worth, Tex., high school, last season coached the "B-24 Fuselage" softball team that won Convair plant championship.

Convair's A team is one of a large number of teams in San Diego which this week, Monday, began a "round robin" softball tournament to last about four weeks. They play every evening on San Diego diamonds and are using the double elimination system. The eight best teams will be organized into an AA league, the second eight best into an A league, the third eight best into a BB league and the fourth eight best teams into a B league for the regular season's play.

The fish catch is rising but not fast enough to meet the demand. Many sections of the country are now eating fish that completely ignored that food before rationing.

Mrs. George C. Marshall

MRS. GEORGE C. MARSHALL FOUNDS THE GRANDMOTHERS LEAGUE

WASHINGTON, D. C.: General George C. Marshall's wife founded the Grandmothers League as a roll of honor for grandmothers who buy War Bonds for their grandchildren.

Mrs. Marshall herself buys Bonds and stamps regularly for her three grandchildren, Tupper Brown, age 1, Jimmy Winn, 2, and Jimmy's sister Kitty, 9 months.

"Those Bonds fight for America today," Mrs. Marshall said in Washington. "When they mature they will bring to the coming generation the educational and other privileges that make America worth fighting for."

REMEMBER way back in 1940...

...when vacation time found the old jalopy bulging with family, fishing tackle and stuff ...all set for a couple of weeks along the Russian River ...and on the way you "whizzed" by sign after sign urging, "Next Time Try the Train".

My how the war has changed things! This year we'll camp in our own back yards and use the trains only in the necessary conduct of business or emergency . . . but among the few things that haven't changed is the cost of

Natural Gas and Electricity

WHICH STILL REMAINS AS LOW (OR LOWER)* THAN BEFORE THE WAR

BUT EVEN SO . . . gas and electricity are essential "tools" of war. They must not be wasted. Both are indirect by-products of fuel oil . . . so vital to victory. Natural gas is used in place of oil in many industrial plants. These war industries are equipped to burn either gas or oil. They use gas, when it's available, thus saving oil for our submarines and warships . . . so the gas you save will actually release precious fuel oil for the Battle of the Pacific. Regardless of the fact that gas and electricity are at pre-war prices . . .

Use What You Need . . . But Be Sure You Need What You Use!

*A reduction in rates, in February 1943, benefited many types of gas and electric service.

Nice Going San Diego!

STAY ON THE JOB AND FINISH THE JOB

Here are a few ways to "Fight Waste":

OF ELECTRICITY

1. Turn off lights when not needed.
2. Share the light. Arrange lamps and furniture so a single lamp can serve more than one person.
3. Clean lamp bulbs and reflectors. You will gain 25% to 35% more light.
4. Turn off radio when not listening.
5. Defrost electric refrigerator regularly.
6. Turn off or disconnect appliances when not in use.

OF NATURAL GAS

1. Turn off gas heaters in unused rooms.
2. Avoid overheating.
3. Keep gas burning appliances in proper adjustment.
4. Do not waste hot water. Repair leaky faucets. Operate automatic water heaters at a temperature under 140 degrees.
5. Cook with low flame.
6. Do not use running hot water for washing dishes.

Glacier Gremlins Elect Officers

The Glacier Gremlins, a boys and girls social and athletic club for those of high school age, elected officers at a meeting held Tuesday at the Point Loma home of George Creelman.

Ray Dickerson was elected president, George Creelman vice-president, Janet Roenicke secretary, Nancy Sherwin treasurer and Shirley Thiverge and Marvin Finch members of the social committee.

Ice skating for both the boys and girls and ice hockey for the boys in competition with other boys teams have been enjoyed for several months past by this Point Loma group of boys and girls. Now that the Glacier Gardens are closed for the summer, the Glacier Gremlins club has recently been organized to provide social activities and other athletics for the members. Membership in the club totals about 40.

The hockey team was one of the top teams of boys who played at the Glacier Gardens. Nine members of the team were awarded pins at the recent close of the hockey season.

3000 Workers Coming For Naval Projects

At least 3,000 laborers are to be brought to San Diego from other states in order to push the construction on new naval projects that have been authorized for the San Diego area. The advance guard of these construction workers already are enroute here, reports Manager M. A. Mathias of the San Diego chapter of the Associated General Contractors of America.

The workers, mostly carpenters, will be housed in navy barracks at the amphibious base on the Coronado strand and others will be sent here as government projects are completed elsewhere in the nation, Mathias said.

Chapter members, at their last meeting, adopted resolutions indorsing creation of a county water authority and calling upon Gov. Earl Warren and the interregional highway committee of congress to make San Diego a terminus for one of six proposed post-war cross-country highways.

FRANK BARKS WORKS AT WOOD ENGRAVING HOBBY IN SPARE TIME

In Ocean Beach Frank C. Barks, 4461 Santa Monica ave., is keeping alive the art of wood engraving, an art that for many hundreds of years was widely practiced by the Chinese and other races. Employed regularly as an illustrator for the Consolidated Vultee Aircraft corporation, Barks during his spare time works at his hobby of wood engraving.

The Ocean Beach wood worker reports that he became interested in the art many years ago and has since made it his hobby to be indulged in after he completes his day's work with brush and pen at the Convair plant. He has plans in mind for a wood engraving project that will consist of a series of 12 engravings depicting the history of San Diego from 1642 to 1944 but as yet is not certain that he can complete so ambitious a project at least until the war is over.

Mrs. Greeson Has Record of 1748 Hours in U.S.O.

Mrs. Lloyd D. Greeson, who with her husband, founded the Ocean Beach U.S.O. unit Aug. 15, 1943, and has since been the manager of operations, has already set something of a record for hours served and donated to this worthy war effort in behalf of the men in the armed forces who are temporarily in Ocean Beach. Up to Wednesday noon, she had served a total of 1748 hours.

Mrs. Greeson has already won all four of the four service pins that are awarded for such activity. She won her first, a small gold pin, after 50 hours of U.S.O. duty; her second, a small silver pin, after 100 hours; her third, a large gold pin after 500 hours and her fourth and last, a large silver pin after 1,000 hours on duty. During the busiest periods of the U.S.O. center here she has worked as many as 12 hours in one day.

Mother's Day Party, a Hit

The Mother's day party staged at the U.S.O. here Saturday evening proved a big hit with the servicemen, nearly 300 of whom enjoyed the evening's entertainment provided. Miss Lucille Iverson, local dance instructor, donated her regular U.S.O. floor show for this particular occasion, and her program was a feature of the evening. Dancing and refreshments also were provided.

Being a Mother's day event, the servicemen took their turn at the serving and waited on all the U.S.O. mothers present with the refreshments. Each mother present also was given a corsage.

French Being Taught

The U.S.O. schedule this week includes the giving of lessons in French, dancing lessons Saturday night, swimming Sunday afternoon, following which a buffet supper will be served from 6 to 7 o'clock.

NEED IS GREAT FOR HUNDREDS MORE RED CROSS BLOOD DONORS

Urging "hundreds upon hundreds" of San Diegans to volunteer as blood donors, officials of the Red Cross blood donor center at Columbia and Beech streets point out that the center is not meeting the quota of 400 pints a day as requested by the army and navy.

"This is the third spring of World War II" said Lt. Henry S. Blake, (MC) USNR, medical director of the center. "Corregidor fell two years ago this month: we were sustaining heavy losses in North Africa one year ago. The picture is no better now, with heavy casualties reported from Italy, and the worst battles of all to come with Invasion.

"The booking office reports that at no time in the nine months the center has been open have there been so few new appointments made. We ask the people of San Diego not to let their fighting men down in this most critical hour."

Appointments are made by calling Franklin 7704 from nine to five Monday through Friday. Donations are made from nine till five-twenty Monday and Fridays, from noon to seven-twenty Tuesdays and Thursdays. The mobile unit operates in surrounding communities on Wednesdays.

NOTED AUTHOR BUYS SAN DIEGO RESIDENCE

The famed novelist Harold Bell Wright has purchased a permanent home at 2416 Pamo ave. in the Burlingame section of San Diego, J. J. Burke, realtor, who arranged the transaction, reported Tuesday. Wright plans to build a studio addition to the house in which to do his writing, Burke said.

The house was purchased from Joseph W. Turner, who is moving to his ranch at Bonita.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, pilot of a Flying Fortress, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Eight of his men were killed while fleeing for shelter, and Old 99, with many other Forts, was demolished on the ground. After escaping to Australia, what is left of the squadron flies to Java, where they go on many missions over the Philippines and the Java sea. The Japs learn the weakness of the E model Fortress, but the boys stick a .50-caliber gun in the navigator's compartment. Kurtz senses he is being watched in Java and one night wakens at the glare of a flashlight. The hand that held it also held a dagger. The would-be assassin gets away.

CHAPTER XVII

"We dreamed and prayed for this. And as a matter of fact the Navy did make an attempt. An aircraft tender was loaded with P-40's and started out from Australia. But what happened was just what was feared. Those P-40's were in crates stacked high on her decks, so she had to come clear in—through skies the Jap bombers ruled. She went down with her entire crew and those crated P-40's forty miles off the southwest coast of Java—but I'm sure the Navy was doing the best it could for us with what they had.

"Of course it gave our morale a kick in the belly. Late the next afternoon young Jack Dale (he'd won his spurs in the Philippines with the 17th Pursuit) came in from Gnoro on a personal mission from Major Bud Sprague. When he'd finished it he stayed a few minutes.

"The next night a Navy man who had just got in from our little fleet told me what had happened to the Marblehead and the Houston, those two beautiful cruisers which had been the nucleus of our Asiatic Fleet—helping the Dutch and Australians defend Java. With the rest of the fleet they'd been out in the Java Sea. When they sighted a Jap recco plane overhead about noon, they knew they were in for trouble. They had no carrier, of course, which could send a fighter up to shoot it down. He said the Jap bombers presently came over them from their bases in Borneo and the Celebes (our bases they had captured) in three waves, spaced about half an hour apart. By skillful maneuvering they dodged the bombs of the first two waves. But the third, which crippled them, caught them just at sundown, and chewed their superstructures into steel spaghetti.

"In the darkness, they were able to crawl away out of range, and the Marblehead eventually got back to the States."

"But troubles of our own were looming ahead. The boys in Navy Patrol Wing 10 came in with the report that their planes on reconnaissance had sighted a force of six Jap transports and five warships headed toward Bali Strait, which divides Java from Bali. They were after the Den Passar airdrome on Bali—our last stepping-stone—having already occupied the airfield at Timor. This was, as maybe you now begin to see, a war of airdromes—Clark, Del Monte, Kendari, Samarinda, Kupang, all of them lost pearls in the United Nations' defenses, and now Den Passar. Next it could only be Malang, KNILM, Gnoro, and Madiun—all we had left on the strand. Seldom in this war did the Japs make a brutal assault; always it was the skillful surgeon's technique—isolate and occupy the airdromes and then you have the country. It was a game we knew well too, but you've got to buy chips before they will deal you a hand, and we didn't have the equipment.

"All I can say is the Dutch and Americans were ready to defend Bali with what we had. Our little surface navies moved in that night to clip them a glancing blow on the run, as they'd done at Macassar Straight, and our submarines did a grand job in the moonlight. The Colonel sent his Fortresses out and down to 5,000, to paste them from the air. We left two transports burning in the moonlight, and a crippled cruiser.

"Next morning it was up to the Air Force alone, because the Navy was too tiny to venture out by day. The Forts went over, of course—in fact everything we had, to smash at those Jap transports as they poured thirty thousand troops onto the beach at Bali. The P-40's were led by Bud Sprague himself. That morning he got his commission as a lieutenant colonel. He paused just before the take-off to scrawl his signature on his papers, but he didn't take time to pretty himself up in his new silver leaves; I guess he was satisfied to die in his old gold ones. Because what they desperately needed was dive bombers, and about all they had was P-40's—a fighter plane which was never built as a stable platform to launch an egg from. But all right, there the job was to do, and so Bud climbed into the cockpit.

" 'How many passes at the target are we going to make?' someone asked.

" 'Depends on how many wild hairs I'm sprouting when we get over her,' says Bud with a grin, and they were off.

"He led them cold pigeon into that Jap barrage over the Bali beach—Christ!—back here the people don't know that boy ever did a thing out there—and the other boys saw him go down in on his run—and never come up again. Yet his boys—what are left of them—still like to hope maybe he succeeded in landing on that Bali beach, which looks so nice in the travel folders, and will turn up grinning some day, telling them what a social success he was with the natives.

"But it was pitiful. We lost almost all our dive bombers there, and about half our P-40 fighters. Of course Bud and his gang made the Japs pay ten to one for taking that airfield—but the Japs had it to pay.

"With the Japs holding that Bali field, they could send bombers and fighters into every corner of Java, and we knew it was almost over. But anyway the Forts could now bomb our own field the Japs had taken from us—very convenient, because we knew exactly where everything was.

"When I got back late to the hotel there was that beautiful Dutch girl, the one with the black hair and the pale face which was so wistfully sad in repose. Only there were no sudden little smiles lighting it up now. She was at the table where she and John Robertson usually sat, alone. When she saw me she jumped up and came running across the room. Had I seen John? she wanted to know, in her pretty broken English.

"Out in the lobby they had told me John was missing. He'd been out on reconnaissance patrol in that lumbering slow old Navy flying boat, and there had been two messages from him: 'Many Zeros sighted,' and then about a minute later a final one: 'Zeros closing in.' That left only three of the ones I knew in gallant Patrol Wing 10, Commander Peterson, Bill Hardy, and Duke Campbell. None of them had been able to tell her, and when I looked at her face I found I couldn't either. Because it was the face of someone frozen with fear in a nightmare—so frozen you knew she daren't move to accept the truth if you told her, so I too was afraid.

"In all the evenings that were left (there were not to be many) I avoided that lobby, because it was haunted by a ghost—a pretty, pale, fear-frozen face that came running up to you and asked, with hope forced into a frightened smile, if you had seen John. To me the most frightening ghost of all—the ghost of a dead love which will not die.

"But there's something else that should be told, only I must go back in the story a little. The Army had sent a high ground officer to Surabaya on a special mission of great importance, and with about a million dollars deposited to his credit in the Javische Bank. With this he was to buy and equip with supplies three blockade runners which would carry to Corregidor ammunition, medical supplies, and food for those poor devils on Bataan who were still fighting on. Two of the ships had already left. A third was almost ready to go.

"This officer left Java the twenty-sixth of February. The day after he left, his assistant, a young second lieutenant, called me up in considerable anxiety. His chief, he explained, had paid him the compliment of leaving him in Surabaya in entire charge of completing the arrangements.

"Nothing remained to be done except the most important thing of all: the officer before leaving had been unable to find a radio operator for this last ship. Without one they could not start, because unless they gave a prearranged radio signal when they approached Corregidor, the Rock's guns would blow them to pieces. Could the Air Force possibly let them have a radio operator? Since the mission was a dangerous one, the assistant said he would pay a man who volunteered a bonus out of the money his chief had left in the bank.

"Now asking our Colonel for a radio operator was like asking him for his right arm. But Java was caving in, the situation was tense. Our Colonel hesitated, and then said that while he couldn't order anyone on so dangerous a mission, he thought, even after we explained clearly what it was, we could get a volunteer.

"And we did. We told the men the mission was most dangerous but of the greatest possible service to our country. And out of the line stepped a clean-cut, alert-looking kid called Sergeant Warrenfeltz. Only after this did I tell him of the five-thousand-dollar bonus. We let Warrenfeltz go down and look over the ship, loaded with surgical equipment, food, drugs, and three hundred thousand rounds of .30-caliber ammunition, so that she was practically a floating bomb. He talked to the captain (a Swede) and looked over the Negro and Chinese crew. There were two—one for topside dressed like Javanese natives so the Japs might mistake her for a fishing trawler. Then Warrenfeltz came to me with written orders from the bomber command and I told him the ports of call. They were to slip out at night, down the north coast of Java, through Lombok Strait, then along the Netherlands East Indies, then cut up east of the Celebes, running the Jap blockade into the Philippines till they came to Manila Bay entrance, where they would be challenged by the Rock. And he was to answer on the radio with the proper signal.

"Then he asked what were the other ports of call. So I told him (it makes me creep to repeat it) they were then to run the blockade through the Jap-mandated islands past Guam (now held by the Japs) to Honolulu.

" 'What else?' asked Warrenfeltz, grinning. He was game for anything. And I told him his third and last port of call would be New York. And then what? he wanted to know. I told him if he got that far, he was to have himself some fun, and I was sitting down now to write him out an order for thirty days' leave.

"He knew what he was getting into. We'd been flying over those waters for months; he knew just how thick the Jap surface ships were, and also that they had hardly a fifty per cent chance of escaping being blown up by a Jap mine just outside the breakwater. Why did he do it? To help those poor devils in the infantry, dying on Bataan. He'd seen the cargo. And then the money—he told me exactly what to do with that, and the message I must send, but we'll come to it later. Of course it was all pretty irregular, paying a man for heroism. Maybe when peace comes, somebody in a swivel chair in Washington will start writing us letters asking us why we did it, and I don't know what we'll say. And then it all ended happily for us, because the money Warrenfeltz was supposed to receive for trying to do what he did was never paid. But that comes later.

"Meanwhile we had other things to worry about. The Japs had put a little landing force ashore on a tiny island sixty miles north of Surabaya, and taken over its radio station.

"They hadn't told us yet," said the Bombardier, "but we smelled it. Rumors were running all over the place that we might evacuate any time now. Madiun, where I was based, was being bombed every day now—we'd go out on a mission and always come back to find craters in our runways. When we'd land, immediately there'd be another alarm and we'd have to hop off the field without servicing the planes or loading more bombs.

"Also, instead of going out to targets in formations, we now were going singly. As soon as we'd get one ship on the ground long enough to get it gassed and bombed up, we'd take off by our little lonesome, dodging Zeros to pick just any target from the countless transports that were swarming off Java. In the last week I got a light cruiser and a transport—blew the end off the transport.

"Mostly we were flying in a mental fog. Rumors! Every day they'd say no, we weren't going to evacuate, because more reinforcements were going to land on the field any day now—even our own maintenance crews were about to land by boat. Then we'd hear their boat had been sunk (it really went on past us to India) and that we were pulling out. Nothing was sure, except the fact that all those Jap ships moving toward Java weren't pleasure yachts, and that we didn't have any reception committee to meet them. On what turned out to be my last day I got my plane loaded with bombs and took off, headed for a huge convoy we'd heard was coming down toward us from Borneo. We met it halfway—the plane ahead of us was already pasting it when we arrived. We came in at 28,000 watching this first ship plunking direct hits on two parallel strings of transports—seventeen in each string, thirty four in all, with fifteen or twent naval craft circling them.

Porch Suppers Furnish Tonic For Appetites

Serve the family quickly prepared cool drinks made with flavored powders. They're economical and can be made in a flash by any member of the family.

Save Used Fats!

Wise homemakers will plan porch suppers for warm evenings. Not only will the family enjoy the gay informality of the porch but the changing of mealtime locale just naturally will pep up lagging of appetites that warm weather brings.

Checked cloths in bright colors will carry out the simplicity of theme that is customary when you "rough it" on the porch, or if you have them, fringed cloths or bric-a-brac edged ones will do fine.

Centerpieces of fruit from the orchard or big bowls of colorful vegetables will dress up the table. Fat candles in squatty glasses will add a homey touch to supper, and the family will love to linger over the table just chatting until the last candle burns low. All this promotes a nice social atmosphere which we call home, and that you'll agree is important!

Keep to the simple and sensible with food and try to have foods combined on one platter so there aren't too many trips to the kitchen. Meat and vegetables can go on one platter, salad in a bowl, rolls in a basket and dessert on one plate, everyone dishing out for himself in "help yourself" style.

Barbecued chicken is an appetite bracer and so colorfully golden brown it will make an immediate bid for attention at the porch supper:

Barbecued Chicken.
⅓ cup catsup
2 tablespoons vinegar
½ cup salad oil
1 large onion, grated
1 clove garlic, crushed
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
Dash of cayenne
Pinch of thyme
Chicken, cut in pieces

Combine ingredients in order given, stirring until salt is dissolved. Let stand several hours or overnight. Brush over chicken just before broiling. Broil in a hot oven 20 to 30 minutes, turning frequently, and basting again with sauce, until chicken is cooked thoroughly. If sauce is kept for more than overnight, remove garlic clove.

Veal on Skewers.

Cut boneless veal in pieces 1½ inches square by about ¾ inch thick.

Place on wooden skewers, alternating meat with slightly smaller chunks of peeled potato, carrot and whole, small onions. Lay skewers in roasting pan with 1 cup hot water and salt to taste. Cover and bake in a hot oven 1 to 1½ hours until meat is tender. Garnish with broiled bacon.

Save Used Fats!

For a quick supper dish you might try this meat pie, flavor-rich and economy-wise:

Hamburger Noodle Pie.
(Serves 6)
1½ pounds hamburger
¼ cup milk
½ cup fine, soft bread crumbs
2 tablespoons onion, minced
1 egg, slightly beaten
Salt and pepper to taste
Hot buttered noodles

Combine all ingredients except noodles and pat mixture into bottom and sides of pie plate. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 45 minutes. To serve, fill center with hot, buttered noodles and dust with paprika.

Don't forget the lovely spring greens when it comes to adding color to the table and vitamins to your diet.

Wilted Greens.
1 small onion, chopped
¼ cup bacon fat
⅓ cup mild vinegar
Greens

Cook onion in bacon fat until yellow, then add vinegar. When heated through, add greens and cook until just wilted. Season with salt and pepper and serve hot.

Mixed Spring Greens
(Serves 6)
½ pound beet greens
½ pound dandelion greens
1 teaspoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
1 cup milk
¼ pound chicken livers, sauteed and cut fine

Cook and drain greens. Add lemon juice and salt. Pack into buttered mold or loaf pan and place in oven to keep warm. In the meantime, melt butter, blend in flour and add milk. Stir while cooking until smooth and thick. Add chicken livers. Turn mold onto platter and pour sauce over them.

Beet Greens With Diced Beets.
(Serves 6)
1 pound beet greens
1½ cups cooked beets, cubed
¼ cup melted butter
Salt and pepper to taste

Cook greens until tender and drain. Add beets, butter, salt and pepper, mixing until blended. Serve piping hot.

This veal wheel will turn a new trick for your porch suppers. Pieces of veal, carrots, potatoes and onions all go on wooden skewers to make up the colorful platter and adds new design to menus.

You'll want desserts that aren't too rich and are easy to prepare. Berries are good and in season now:

Strawberry Meringue Pie.
2 cups milk
1 package vanilla pudding
2 beaten egg yolks
½ teaspoon vanilla extract
1 9-inch baked pastry shell
1 cup strawberries

Gradually add milk to pudding, stirring constantly. Cook over low heat until thick. Add part of hot pudding to egg yolks; stir in remaining hot pudding. Cool slightly; add vanilla. Pour into shell. Place strawberries on top of filling. Pile on meringue.

For Meringue:
1 teaspoon unflavored gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
2 egg whites
¾ cup confectioners' sugar
1 cup crushed strawberries
1 teaspoon lemon juice

Soften gelatin in cold water; dissolve over hot water. Combine remaining ingredients. Beat until thick; add gelatin. Continue beating until mixture forms peaks.

Lynn Says

Spring Vegetable Tips: Cut string beans with scissors. It saves time and fingers.

Carrots peel easily if blanched in boiling water for two or three minutes.

To retain the red color of beets, always cook them with about two inches of their stem left on when boiling.

Old coffee percolators are excellent for cooking asparagus. Stand asparagus in percolator, add boiling water, adjust cover and cook. The tips steam beautifully while the stems are cooked to perfect tenderness.

To wash spinach, use warm water rather than cold. It loosens the sand from the leaves.

Surf Shakes Continent

The beating of the surf against the coasts of North America produces a constant vibration in the ground throughout the continent, says Collier's. While this pulsation rarely varies in deserts, it is joined and greatly increased in urban areas by the vibration of machinery and traffic.

In New York city, this activity causes the ground, the natural pulse of which is 10 beats a minute, to vibrate more than 200 times a minute during the busiest hours of the day.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Natural rubber is still something of a mystery, even after years of laboratory experiments. It has carbon and hydrogen, but there are other qualities which have not as yet been determined.

Before the war, 60 per cent of the tires and tubes made each year were used as replacements, and 80 per cent of the new motor vehicles sold replaced those annually scrapped.

Brazil rubber selling at $3.06 a pound in 1910 stimulated the development of the Middle East plantations to the extent that 3,000,000 acres were under cultivation in 1915, providing the bulk of the world's supplies.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.
Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

H. E. McCoy sr., left Thursday by plane for Salt Lake City, Utah, Butte, Mont., then on to Lethbridge, Can. From the Canadian city he will fly back to Bozeman, Mont., and then go to West Yellowstone to care for property interests there during the summer months. He expects tourist travel to the great summer playground to be very light, yet there is always some travel of service people through the park.

Hendricksons Entertain 60 at House Warming

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hendrickson were hosts Saturday evening in their newly acquired home at 4624 W. Point Loma blvd. to a group of 60 friends, Masonic brethren, Eastern Stars and service people. Cards and social conversation were the evening's enjoyment for the house warming.

The entire home has been redecorated since being acquired by Mr. and Mrs. Hendrickson and the former has set up a workshop and den in the roomy basement that might be the envy of most men.

Ruth Pollock, sister of Mrs. Hendrickson, assisted the hostess with invitations and refreshments.

W.A.E. HULTS ENTERTAIN ON MOTHER'S DAY

Special dinner guests on Mother's day at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. E. Hult, 4138 Banning, were Mr. and Mrs. J. Bradford Turley, of Long Beach. Bradford Turley is Mrs. Hult's son and a former Ocean Beach resident. Mrs. Hult's two sisters, Miss Zoela Hickox, and Mrs. Edith Reich, and Mrs. Reich's son, Jack, now on vacation from his duties with the C.A.A., completed the family party.

Mrs. Luzelle Oberhellman of Saratoga ave. entered the Navy hospital last week Thursday to undergo an operation. She expects to be there at least two weeks.

Among those attending "Market" week in Los Angeles this week are Mr. and Mrs. Dan Moss of the Veda Moss Sportswear store, and Mrs. Joe R. Lownes and the latter's sister, Mrs. Dorothy Woodley, of the Joe Lownes local stores. These progressive Ocean Beach merchants are on a buying tour for their respective stores.

OPEN HOUSE AN EVENT OF WEDNESDAY

Mrs. Paul Hendrickson held "open house" at her home, 4624 W. Point Loma blvd. Wednesday afternoon for the members of the Woman's club. Miss Kate Spani presided at the beautifully appointed tea table. Pastel shades of pink and blue flowers were used for the centerpiece.

Mrs. Hendrickson was assisted during the afternoon by her sister, Ruth Pollock. The guests enjoyed bridge and social conversation during the afternoon.

TRANSFER TRUCK TAKEN FOR JOY RIDE SUNDAY

Gene Henderson of the Ocean Beach Transfer Co. couldn't be blamed for being sore Monday. Though his truck was recovered without damage, the precious gasoline contents of the tank had been used. Evidently someone had stolen the truck about 2 a.m. Sunday and had taken it on a joy ride. The truck was found on Del Monte ave. in the 4900 block. Henderson had forgotten and left his keys in the truck he parked on Newport ave.

Rites Held Tuesday For Mrs. Burns

Funeral services for Mrs. Bernice Burns, 61, were conducted Tuesday at 1:30 p.m., at Bonham Brothers, by Chaplain De Witt E. Wright, U.S.N., followed by cremation.

Mrs. Burns, who passed away May 12 in a local hospital, resided with her daughter, Mrs. Bernice Bull, at 2669 Strandway, Mission Beach.

Mrs. Burns was born in Wadesboro, N.C., and had lived here about 15 years. She leaves her daughter, Mrs. Bernice Bull, and grandson, Donald Bull of Mission Beach; a sister, Mrs. Conrad Hillbinger, and a brother, Roy Burns.

Miss Lois Westover Honored at Shower

Miss Lois Westover was complimented at a luncheon and miscellaneous shower Saturday afternoon, the hostess being Mrs. Charles A. Dickson in her Loma Portal home at 3129 Curtis st. Mrs. Dickson carried out the bridal motif in the home decorations, using dainty Cecil Bruner buds.

Miss Westover's coming marriage is scheduled for Monday, May 29, in the Salt Lake L.D.S. Temple at Salt Lake City, Utah.

Guests at the Dickson party included Mesdames Albert O. Westover, William McMahon, William Phreaner, George Wilson, and Philip Andrews; and Kathryn Gilbert, and the Misses Virginia Creel, and Betty, Joann and Carol Westover.

C. L. STRATTON FUNERAL HELD ON THURSDAY

Final rites for Chester Lee Stratton, 58, plastering contractor, of 4833 Santa Cruz ave., who died in his home Saturday, were conducted Thursday afternoon at 1:30 in Bonham Brothers mortuary chapel. Burial was in Greenwood Memorial park.

He was born at Artesian, S. D., later resided in Kentucky and moved here 17 years ago.

Bereft are his widow, Mrs. Edith L. Stratton, a daughter, Mrs. Barker Allen Stacy, of New Orleans; four brothers, Bert, Ray and Richard Stratton, of San Diego, and Claude Stratton of Oakland; two sisters, Mrs. Lillian Parks and Miss Nellie Stratton, San Diego.

SEAL PAYS VISIT TO PORCH OF HOME AT PACIFIC BEACH

A land-inspecting seal was the center of attraction and excitement at Pacific Beach early Tuesday morning, the police of that community report. Force was necessary to evict the intruder from the front porch of D. W. Johnson, 4025 Ocean Front walk and the seal provided plenty of noise during the process.

Evidently driven ashore by lashing seas, the seal awakened occupants of the house by trying to open the front door. One of the householders tried to shoo the animal away, but it held its ground and police were summoned.

Policemen J. C. Freeman and W. L. Wilson came to the rescue and scooted the would-be lodger off the porch and back to the beach.

Temptingly Tart Grapefruit Meringue Pie

Pep up lagging appetites with this tangy, fruity, vitamin-rich pie. The filling, a satiny-smooth combination of canned grapefruit juice and fresh orange . . . poured into a tender, flaky pie shell . . . topped with a luscious meringue. Your family will say it's the best pie you ever made!

This attractive, fine-eating pie is rich in Vitamin C. With canned grapefruit juice and oranges plentiful, you can serve it often.

Grapefruit Meringue Pie

3 tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 cups canned unsweetened grapefruit juice
2 egg yolks, slightly beaten
Grated rind and juice of 1 orange
1 baked Spry Pie Shell

Combine cornstarch, flour, sugar, and salt and mix. . . . Add ½ cup grapefruit juice and mix. Add remaining grapefruit juice and cook until mixture begins to thicken; place over boiling water and cook until thick and smooth (15 minutes), stirring occasionally. . . . Stir a small amount of mixture into egg yolks, return to double boiler, and cook a few minutes longer. . . . Add orange rind and juice and cool. Pour into pie shell. . . . Top with meringue made by beating 4 tablespoons sugar gradually into 2 stiffly beaten egg whites. . . . Bake in slow oven (325° F.) 25 minutes.

Spry Pie Shell

Mix 1¼ cups sifted ALL-PURPOSE FLOUR and ½ teaspoon SALT. Measure out 7 tablespoons SPRY and divide into two equal parts.

STEP 1 for Tenderness—cut in first half of Spry until as fine as meal.

STEP 2 for Flakiness—cut in remaining Spry until particles are size of large peas.

Add 3 tablespoons cold WATER, mixing thoroughly into a dough. Roll ⅛ inch thick and prick with fork. Fit dough in pan and make fluted rim. . . . Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 10 to 15 minutes.

School Observes Health Week

This was "National Public Health" week and to emphasize the importance of good health Mrs. Ura Crawford, school nurse, showed several films on health topics at the Ocean Beach school assembly. One film was called "Vim, Vigor, and Vitamins"; the other, "Health and Posture." As another activity for this week, the sixth grade class, room 18, displayed health posters in the main halls, and the children of the fifth and sixth grades entered slogans in the city-wide contest for health-poster slogans.

On Thursday, May 11, the kindergarten children visited the Fagerheim dairy. They were taken to the dairy by several room mothers. They were given some sweet cream to take home from which to make butter. This cream was allowed to sour. The soured cream was then put into jars and butter was then churned. Mrs. Gardner donated ice-cubes that were used to make the cream churn quicker.

First Birthday Party For Mary Elizabeth

Mary Elizabeth Andeen, daughter of Mrs. Pearl Andeen, 4553 Pescadero ave., will be one-year old, Saturday, May 20. Her mother has arranged a gay outdoor birthday party at 2:30 p.m., to which all the neighborhood children have been invited.

Mrs. Andeen was the former Miss Pearl Campbell before her marriage two years ago to David Andeen, Yoeman 3/c seabees, U.S.N. Last January she received word that her husband was drowned in the South Pacific. He never saw the little daughter who will celebrate her birthday tomorrow.

Guests bidden to share the birthday cake and to watch Mary Elizabeth blow out the one candle, will be Charles and Russell Henderson, Paralee Aaron, Virginia Ann and David George, Peter Severtson, Troy Edward, George and John Haydon, Bonnie Campbell, Dale Orrick, Howard Baumann, Ann and Don Hammond.

Mary Elizabeth's grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andeen, reside in Osage City, Kan.
